

HSUS gets a C-minus grade from CharityWatch for low program spending.

The watchdog Animal People finds that 55% of HSUS's budget goes to overhead.

HSUS is in federal court defending against allegations that it took part in illegal witness payment and bribery. HSUS president Wayne Pacelle signed at least one check in connection with alleged payments.

Members of Congress have called for a federal investigation of HSUS.

Want to help pets? Give to your local shelter. The Humane Society of the United States sends only 1% of its money to local pet shelters

HUMANEWATCH.ORG

Keeping a watchful eye on the Humane Society of the United States

WHAT OTHERS SAY ABOUT THE HUMANE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES

"The Humane Society of the United States doesn't run any shelters. It has no veterinary clinics. That abused puppy whose photo they've published widely in an urgent bid for donations? That puppy was almost certainly rescued by someone else. It's certainly being cared for by someone else. And it won't see a penny of your donation. Okay, perhaps one penny out of every dollar."

Douglas Anthony Cooper | Animal Activist

"If you like getting those mailings and want to pay for more of them, support the Humane Society [of the United States]. If you want to give more for programs or services that benefit animals and advocate better rules and protections for animals, they are not a good target because the portion of their budget they give to these programs is too small."

Daniel Borochoff | CharityWatch president

"Not one penny. We receive nothing from them, and the amount of money they get nationally and don't share with needy shelters like ours is a shame."

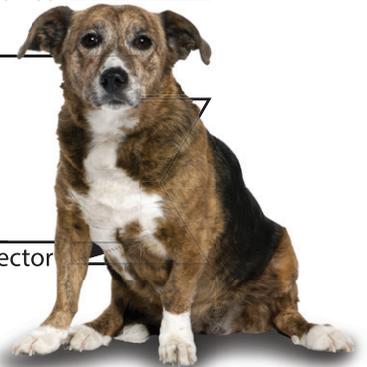

Roseann Trezza | Executive Director of the Associated Humane Societies

"If they actually spent as much time, energy and money on saving animals as they now only pretend to, not only would they not have to cover up their failures to do so...they could truly be the heroes they now only pretend to be."

Nathan Winograd | Animal activist

"People send it to the national humane society when they see these ads thinking it's going to come back to us, when it's really paying their salaries and paying for these ad campaigns and not doing a thing for our local animals."

Ollie Sullivan | Kansas Humane Society Promotions Director

Find out more at:

HUMANEWATCH.ORG

Keeping a watchful eye on the Humane Society of the United States